The Indian Hunter.

The following beautiful poem was written by Longfellow and first published about fifty years ago. It, with many numbers of the poet's earlier compositions, has not appeared in the published collections of his works, but has been recently rescued from oblivion by an admirer, who has collected and republished the most valuable of the ballad and lyric production which had either escaped notice or not been deemed worthy of being incorporated together with his other masterly productions. For the copy of the poem we use, we are indebted to the pleasure given us, though it from its obscurity :

And the ploughshare was in the meadow, and the sickle in the yellow grain,
And the maiden and the matron sang the harvest-home again;
The valley smiled with fatness, and the woods were full of song,
And the soul of peace and joy was there, and calmness all along.

He was a stranger there, and all that day
Had been out on the hills, a restless way;
And the dust of the road was on his feet,
And the well hot sand from the hunter's feet,
And his quick ear caught the breath of joy,
As he stood by the populous hearth of men.

The wheels of autumn came over the woods
And the sound of the village was in his ears;
The mom was white on the neighbor roofs,
And the gray old mill-stream rolled its shade,
And upon it the restless fowls were feeding with proud delight, and hens around it shed.

The foot of the reaper moved slow on the lawn,
And the mower sang loud by the meadow side,
And the shout of the binder was heard afar,
And the wain was piled with the bearded grain,
And the wife and the husband came up by the lane,
And the dance went round by the greenwood tree.

Then the hunter turn'd away from that scene,
Where the home of his fathers once had been,
And heard by the distant and measured roar
That the woodman how'd down the giant oak,
And the soul of the hunter within him died,
When he thought of his own loved native land.

Then the hunter turned

Damage from Rush Fires.

NAPANEE, Aug. 6.—A telegram from Tamworth reports that heavy bush fires are raging in that locality. The greatest damage to date has been done in the timber limits of Messrs. Bronson & Weston. No names. Estimate, $10,000. Fires broke out yesterday.

A telegram from Enterprise reports that bush fires are raging 3 miles south of there, and making great destruction among the timber limits.

NEARLY HALF A CENTURY.—It is now nearly forty-seven years since Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills were introduced to the public, and from the long period of their existence, and the universality with which they are used, they have proved themselves to be the best, if not the most valuable, remedy for impure blood and all diseases arising from a disordered liver, stomach, and bowels.

WE REGARD THE CAUSE OF THE SUFFERER'S sickness as removed when Burdock Blood Bitters is taken. Water may be found in the system, but the real cause of the dropsy or kidney complaint has always proved to give the simple medicinal antidote when Burdock Blood Bitters is administered. Try it, and be convinced of making a speedy, sickly, sweet performance.

THE GREAT FEMALE REMEDY.

JOB MOSES' PILLS.

This invaluable medicine is unfailing in the cure of all those painful and frequent disorders to which the female constitution is subject. It invigorates the whole system, restores health by regulating and strengthening the system, fortifying the nervous temperament, and bringing the pale, and when taken in middle of old age, proves a real blessing. Every lady should keep a box. Each dose Pills should be used for two or three weeks to obtain the most permanent cure. Pills to be derived are immediate; they fortify the constitution, and by acting on the nerves, the greatest weakness of the organs, and enable the patient to enjoy the pleasures of married life in its fullest sense.

In all cases of Nervous and Spinal Affections Pains in the Back and Limbs, Weakness, Nervous Excitation, Palpitation of the Heart, Hysterics, and all Female Pains, Job Moses' Pills will effect a cure when all other means have failed; and, although a powerful remedy, they are perfectly harmless, containing, or anything hurtful to the constitution.

Full directions in the pamphlet around each package. SOLD BY GEORGE DUNN, Agent, Belleville.

40 60 and 100 cents postage, enclosed to Northrop and Lyman, Toronto, General Agents for Canada, and Dominion, will insure a bottle, postage free by return mail.

INVALIDS, do you wish to gather flesh, to secure an appetite, to enjoy a regular habit of body, to obtain refreshing sleep, to feel well, to know that every time and means of your system is being toned and invigorated? If so, commence at once and use the Quinine Wine prepared by Scott & Bowne, of Toronto, and in a short time you will feel the whole system invigorated and strengthened. This is the verdict of all who have been acknowledged by the medical profession faculty for many years as the best appetizer and tonic known. And for general debility, the combination will be found superior to all other preparations. Be sure and ask for it, and take no other wine and alcohol accession, it is made an accessible and pleasant medicine to act on the system. The properties of Quinine are a febrifuge tonic and stimulant. Small doses, frequently repeated, strengthen the pulse, increase the appetite, and improve digestion; large doses lessen the nervous power, lessen the force of the circulation, and produce debility and derangement of the digestive organs. Peruvian Bark is a tonic, and it is believed it will never fail, if regularly and judiciously administered, unless other diseases predominate of a different character. Persons of weak constitution may take it without the least difficulty, as it strengthens the stomach and digestive organs, and seldom requires more than one or two bottles to effect a desired benefit, as it contains nothing injurious to the most delicate constitution. Remember to ask for the "Quinine Wine prepared by Scott & Bowne, Toronto," and we are sure you will not be disappointed if you have full value for your money.

Should Mr. Speaker's ruling be given against the Bill, regular survey will probably be made, and possibly some of the work may be commenced during the fall.

Murderous Assault.

Last Friday afternoon, Mr. A. H. Gilbert, who was carrying on Mr. M. Kitchen Graham's grain, had a quarrel with Henry Tregenzie, which did not amount to anything. In the evening, Tregenzie was walking along quietly with Gilbert on the high road, when the latter, without any provocation, struck Gilbert, by striking him over the head with a bottle, from which he had been drinking, and about an inch in thickness. He continued beating Gilbert with a bottle, Tregenzie, who hearing the cry of "murder," or "help," came to Mr. Gilbert's assistance, separated the combatants, and a messenger sent to the city for the injured man. Sergt. McCrodden and Constable Downs went out all in a hurry, and brought the prisoner to the city.

A MISTAKE CORRECTED.—An American exchange has the following remark:—"We see it stated in some of our exchanges that Canada thistles are a great pest to farmers, and should be destroyed. A farmer to satisfy his curiosity recently shot one and used its crop. He found it contained two hundred seeds and four grains of corn, and these four grains the weevil had harrowed. This is a pretty good evidence that the thistle should not be killed." To this last sentence we say "Hear, hear."

MEETING OF THE YORK IN HUNGARY.—On evening General Commander, J. Lansberg, organized another tent of the above order, and the name remaining will receive their "Golden Charter" in a few days. On entering the Temple, the first thing to strike the delicacies of ballast, and by the close of the evening the Temple was filled to overflowing. Addresses were delivered by Sir Knights Bro. Management of the Dairy.

It is well known that the value of the grass crops of the United States is greater than that of any other crops, for size of farms, given as a general measure, the excess or failure of other products. The harvest of grass is always in demand for the several months of summer, and, for a settled country, must have help, for it cannot be stored. Without pasturage we cannot have a supply of butter or cheese, or beef, mutton, or wool. The scarcity of choice butter, and the unsatisfactory state of inferior qualities, and the reason which farmers assign for not keeping dairy stock, are matters of first importance to the country. Let us see the causes which produce such an injurious effect on one of the most important products of the farm.

A notice in dairy farming, although he may have plenty of capital, and land and stock, will not succeed any more than in any other business without experience alone can teach. A farmer who has succeeded with corn, potatoes, and perhaps with the assistance of an experienced hand, made a selection of cows, he will find that the greatest attention will be required to keep them in proper condition for the dairy. There is an old proverb which says, that "a cow eats through their mouths," and the dairy farmer will soon learn that the saying is true, and understand both, with limiting check, the quantity and quality of food to be given to each animal.

Cleanliness, neatness, and regularity are entirely unfit for dairy men, or for washing butter, or for making cheese, unless they which are formerly, or inclined to be neat-lane, or unwashed. Those who keep cows are not only troublesome, and likely to lead the whole family into disorder, but the dairy cannot be in that proper state of health and cleanliness which are, their milk is not fit for use, and the whole value of the cows is lost.

Many years experience in dairy farming will be necessary to acquire the facility of discerning a cow that is in every way suited to the dairy, and the art of purchasing her at a rate that will admit the dairyman cannot have other than a profit on stock, and the breeds from these cows which are the best milkers, and at the same time suited to the farm for the dairy. It may not be easy to learn from a cow's appearance if she will be a good milker, but there are certain points, yet it is possible to do so, and the quality of the cow's milk may be known. A second dairyman is generally made up of those who have had no experience, persons with large commons or native breeds generally produce good milkers, and the best may be kept in addition, and readily take on to when past their prime.

After the difficulty concerning the best milch cows and erecting a milk house on the most convenient spot, comes the choice of "all appliances and means to boot" for keeping the milk and cream, and the most convenient method of the process to have the butter damaged by too much or too little working, and the best mode of making the wrong kind of salt. It is said that the annual loss to the dairy farmers of millions of dollars annually from the latter cause, and the want of thinking, more than any other seed that imparts an unpleasant taste to butter, and the putting up of butter in such a manner as to spoil the look and so both sales of the international Boundary Commission Lands and in the United States this territory. Thence the Battle River Valley, a region of extensive and beauty, sweeps in a northwesterly direction some 200 miles along the course of the Battle Saskatchewan, and forward to the Rocky mountains of the West, embracing an area, as shown in the Dominion Land Century, of at least 200,000,000 acres, nearly the whole of which is capable of cultivation and presence of the richest description. Since the construction of the Canada Pacific Railway has been completed this region has been made accessible by the trans-line and lateral branch systems. Within a few years the city of Winnipeg, at the junction of the Red and Assiniboine rivers, has risen to sprang up from an Indian post of the Hudson's Bay Company, to be a well built town of 8,000 inhabitants; summer have been introduced over the Red river, and the Red for "shores, and a commerce all say 400 miles long connects the Canadian city with St. Paul, Minnesota, and in the summer months sailing March 31, 1879, there were sold by the Government Commissioner of the railways in Manitoba and Northern Dakota, 2,000,000 acres of wheat land and immediate settlement. In Manitoba and the Saskatchewan region, the crop of wheat was hundred, 2,000,000 acres of wheat land were allotted last year to actual settlers in the Province alone.

The settlers in the Red River region are of the most diverse character, and include not only farmers from the older States, from Great Britain, Europe, and Ontario, but especially from the best parts of Ontario. The settlement accumulation setting on the Minnesota frontier, and the Canadian Dominion and Canadians, in about equal proportions. They have come to stay, and the best part of the North-west by the peerless advantages of the soil, and the climate, and is suitable to the area at the average, while it often yields 40 and 50 bushels. They build houses in the way of the first year they put all outlay up to that time, relieve the capital invested in stock, and the first crop will farm in a high state of cultivation for succeeding years, and generally pays for the whole, "says the writer to whom we have referred, "a man may come to this land a few months repays all advances of the purchase and establishment, and leaves as a profit a money value for the land equal to that for the original outlay! It is this enormous profit that is realized so many hundreds of dollars into the ranks of this novel immigration, and which has made the Canadian North-west the most rapid progress in the history of colonization."

The testimony with respect to the bright future of this region is not to be gainsaid. It has been so for the last few years, and the tide of immigration, harvesting and threshing was under 250 per cent. Last year it was a million, and this, 250,000 to 300,000 acres. This was in Manitoba and the north of the Canadian line they got a much larger yield per acre than, and in twenty-seven miles along the Assiniboine river, the Canadian Pacific Railway harvest that averaged considerably over eighty to the acre.

In the Northwestern Provinces of Canada wheat often produces forty and fifty bushels to the acre, and in the Red Mountain valley bushels is the average crop, in Winnipeg, Minnesota, and in the Saskatchewan and Battle River valley, and in the Canadian Dominion. Cultivated plants yield till the richest possible value for the commercial farmer at which they grow. In Prince Albert and other settlements on the Saskatchewan forty bushels of spring wheat to the acre every year, and in the Battle River valley, the warm spring days in the prime of the plant, but the cool nights retain the moisture, and to the detriment of the seed. The extent of the Canadian Dominion in this territory is comparatively unknown to the United States. It is said to contain 484,000 square miles, while the whole of the United States except Alaska, contains 2,933,000 square miles. It is 1,000 miles in length, and 400 miles in breadth, and is bounded on the south by the Canadian Pacific Railway, on the north by the Saskatchewan River, on the east by the Province of Manitoba, and on the west by the Rocky Mountains. Its climate is said to be similar to that of Minnesota, and its soil is of the richest description. Since the construction of the Canada Pacific Railway has been completed this region has been made accessible by the trans-line and lateral branch systems. Within a few years the city of Winnipeg, at the junction of the Red and Assiniboine rivers, has risen to sprang up from an Indian post of the Hudson's Bay Company, to be a well built town of 8,000 inhabitants; summer have been introduced over the Red river, and the Red for "shores, and a commerce all say 400 miles long connects the Canadian city with St. Paul, Minnesota, and in the summer months sailing March 31, 1879, there were sold by the Government Commissioner of the railways in Manitoba and Northern Dakota, 2,000,000 acres of wheat land and immediate settlement. MY OWN SHALL COME.

Serene I fold my hands and wait,
Nor care for wind, or tide, or sea;
I rave no more 'gainst time or fate,
For, lo! my own shall come to me.

I stay my haste, I make delays,
For what avails this eager pace?
I stand amid the eternal ways,
And what is mine shall know my face.

Asleep, awake, by night or day,
The friends I seek are seeking me;
No wind can blow my argosy astray,
Nor change the tide of destiny.

What matter if I stand alone?
I wait with joy the coming years;
My heart shall reap where it has sown,
And garner up the fruit of tears.

The waters know their own, and draw
The brook that springs in yonder height;
So flows the good with equal law
Unto the soul of pure delight.

The stars come nightly to the sky.
The tide waves to the sea;
Give love, and love to you will flow,
Can heap my own away from me.

Carlyle's Advice to a Young Man.

The following letter was addressed by Thomas Carlyle, in 1830, to a young man who was about to enter upon the practice of medicine. It is in the author's best and most characteristic style. Accordingly, it differs very much from the ordinary advice which is usually given to a young man of unusual talent, who is about to enter upon a profession, and who is present in the unfortunate position of having his way in the world to make, chiefly and exclusively, by his own talents, by his own industry, and by his own character. The following letter does not profess to contain a form of character indicative the profession of medicine, but contains the kind of advice which every young man, who is about to enter upon the world; but is also, unless guided towards a right path by some such advice as is here given, is in disagreement and failure in your course of life. SHADOW-EVIDENCE.

BY MARY MAPLES DODGE.

Shift o'er the sunny grass,
I saw a shadow pass
Of somebody whose shape
So quick, so full of life,
With all the strength and grace
I started low, to see
What shape it was from me.

Why look up to the blue?
The bird was gone, I knew;
For out of sight,
Slowly, and knot of wing,
The slight, floating thing,
Intent on a dual unknown,
Had held its course alone.

Your little life, my child,
Flying down at my feet
Is but the type and sign
Of something more to me;
Of some things felt and known
And guarded as my own.

All my life long
Shadows of reality fly by.

MY OWN SHALL COME.

Serene I fold my hands and wait,
Nor care for wind, or tide, or sea;
I rave no more 'gainst time or fate,
For, lo! my own shall come to me.

I stand amid the eternal ways,
And what is mine shall know my face.

Asleep, awake, by night or day,
The friends I seek are seeking me;
No wind can blow my argosy astray,
Nor change the tide of destiny.

What matter if I stand alone?
I wait with joy the coming years;
My heart shall reap where it has sown,
And garner up the fruit of tears.

The Pure in Heart

Who are the pure in heart? Not those whom others extol for their unsullied purity—not those whose voices are loudest in declamation against sin, and who are the first to denounce forth to the world. The truly pure in heart are sometimes, alas! unappreciated even as modestly as some broken violet that grows through a quiet vale. There is no fortitude in their purity—no triumphant spirit in their virtue. Their course is marked only by the fortitude with which they endure ill. The purity of he be truly gifted with "vision and faculty divine," who sees above all men, he has that privileged order of beings who, in this world are "sweetly troubled" in the midst with Divinity itself. His studies, his solitary musings, his constant communion with the things of this earth and sky, all tend to elevate his thoughts and his aspirations, until the most familiar and intimate communication with the spirit-land is his. Such communion is not of earth, but of heaven, and the pure in heart is the one who, in the midst of the tumult of the world, can hear the voice of God. But there are those who, by their innocent purity of heart, must be ranked with the seeming of the pharisee, as truly pure. Their lives are spent in the midst of those light troubles which pass, like a summer cloud, over the pure mirror which they reflect. It is not in the power of such to bear deep sorrow. Sorrow comes to them but as a passing shadow, and nothing but a gentle tear-drop, which, like the pure mirror which they reflect, is quickly dried up by the sunshine of heaven, and straightway heaven is mirrored in its face. Such are the pure in heart, who, in his outdoor pastimes; he is always daring, always active, always in the midst of fun and mischief, yet always upheld and saved by some angel.

Marriage.

Girls do not realize that marriage either makes or mars two lives. But it does; therefore the utmost caution is necessary. Do not marry a man who has only his love for you to recommend him. Love is all very well, counting but it does not make the man. If he is not otherwise worthy of you, that love will never be happy. The most perfect man and his love will not long last, never by one husband but through the marriage without love is terrible. Do not marry a man for his riches; he is dishonorable to other men, or mean, or given to any vice, he will be to you, sooner or later, all other baths him or sink to his level. It is easy to remember, amidst the flattering attentions of a lover, that a man else in the world to be done or thought of but you; but after he is your husband he will be one of the world, and you will be to him but a part of his life.

Procrastination.

"I can do it just as well to-morrow," says the sluggard, when reminded that it is time to set about duty; but when to-morrow comes it is found as far off as ever. The habit of putting off weight is too much for it to carry. Somebody else must do it, or it must be left undone. Many a day of sin and misery, disappointment and failure in your course of life, Procrastination has cheated and ruined souls. The evil habit of putting off to another time, or to another state, that is spiritual the polestrian for the present duty.

"Perhaps," said Davies, "you will hold me excused when I tell you that I am not only an going nine miles to preach, and have only composed in my mind two of the three I purpose to put out in. But the crown for which I preach is a crown of glory."

For Boys.

You were made to be kind and generous and magnanimous. If there is a boy in the world who has not these traits, he is not the boy you saw it. If there is a poor boy with rags and dirt, you saw it. If there is a lame boy, or if there is a lame boy assign him some part of the game which will not require him to get about much. If a dull one, help him to get his lessons. If there is a bright one, do not secure his help in part of those you find hard to do. Drawings, Specifications, &c. of buildings and Estimates of cost prepared. Patents applied for. JOHN D. EVANS. THOS. O. SOLOEN, P. L. S. B. A.

Make Friends.

Life is very critical. Any word may be our last. Any farewell, even amid gloss and bustle, may be our last. Any look may be our last burned into our consciousness, and if it is not a deep conviction and a real power in our lives, would it not give a new meaning to our words, our manner, our look, if we did not make as far more tender than we seem to? Would it not oftentimes put a rein upon our words, if we carry in our hearts the miserable sense that perhaps that one is the last we shall utter the loudness of our lives? Would we allow trivial misunderstandings to build walls of separation between us as we do, if we might be stand very close to us? Would we keep alive pride and anger for an hour after which a manly word any day would conquer it? Would we part at the door of the house or the street without recognition, because of some real or imagined slight, or some thought of pride, or some sentinel grudge? Or would we be so slow to utter kind words, or any demonstrative, our sympathy, our comfort when we heard a sorrow, or saw a need, because we had such expressions of interest or appreciation as we could make? Make friends.

Civility is a Fortune.

Civility is a fortune itself, for courteous men always succeed well in life, and that by paying nothing for what others purchase at a high price. The famous Duke of Marlborough is a case in point. He said of himself, that he considered that his agreeable manners often answered the same purpose to him as his victories. Certain it is that it was more pleasing to be denied a favor by a man who received you with politeness than by the gruff and churlish manner of one who granted the request with a surly air.

The gracious manner of Charles James Fox is proverbial, and it is recorded that, on one occasion when he was politically the most unpopular man in the kingdom. The history of the world is full of such examples of success obtained by civility. The experience of every man of observation, if he has had any, is frequent instances where conciliatory manners have made his fortune. The politician, the lawyer, divines, politicians, merchants, and indeed persons of all professions. The force of civility is what beauty is to a woman; it is a general passport to favor. Civility is a kind of instinct, written in the language that can be understood by all men, and in all respects, the courteous one has twice the chance of fortune.

Profanity.

Surely profanity is one of the glaring vices of the day, and nowhere is it exercised more freely than in the streets of Chicago. The profane swearing is not common in the streets. The individual is in such communities acquires a respect for the rights of his neighbors, and strong multitudes he has to be an object to regard to the projections of all. Any such act as obtrusive swearing in the street would soon arouse the attention of the police man as the representative and agent of public sentiment. In many country villages a different state of things seems to prevail. Profanity is not regarded as a thing to be ashamed of, but as a sort of manly accomplishment. In the barroom and the corner grocery the air is free with strange oaths flying out, not in anger or by way of excitation, but merely to strengthen, adorn and emphasize discourse. As explosive is the great figure of rhetoric. It serves to describe a girl's beauty, to estimate a horse's speed, to measure the yield of a wheat field. It is the climax of invective against an enemy, the chief argument in a discussion, the point of every witticism. Two men cannot meet in the street without adding to each other's health choice specimens of profanity. Plenty of decent people passing by must feel shocked, but they are powerless to expose their indignation, for probably has got to be a country lawin. This vice of indiscriminate swearing, setting aside its indecency, tends to corrupt the soul, degrade and destroy the capabilities for expressing any strong feeling. A bad habit, neighbor; master if are you become its slave.

General News.

THE FALL OF ULUNDI.

Destruction of Cetewayo's Military Kraals.

UTTER ROUT OF THE ZULUS.

The following is the account of the battle of Ulundi, as given by the special correspondent of the London Times:—

On the morning of July 4 daybreak this morning the Flying Column and the 2nd Division crossed the White Umvolosi. The 1st Battalion of the 24th Regiment remained behind in laager. Colonel Butler's skirmishers and dismounting reconnaissance together drew out the Zulus in full force, and the enemy showed that they intended to fight for the advance in the open ground between the river and Ulundi. Lord Chelmsford accordingly determined to meet them and hazard a fight in open ground. This resolution showed great judgment and ability. The Zululand army were more steady on this occasion than they have ever been in laager, and the effect of the fight in open ground will be greater on the Zulus than any repulse from entrenchments. With the exception of the cavalry skirmish and water-carts, no vehicles accompanied the expedition. On the first clear ground we came to the order was given to form the square, and the 1st Division in front, and the 2nd Division in the rear. The square was formed in the following order as follows: On the first face five companies of the 58th Regiment, under Major Parnell; the Naval Brigade, under Major Owen, in their centre. On the right flank the 57th Regiment, Major Dartnell's battery, under Lieut. Davidson; and the mounted men under Col. Buller. On the left rear, under Major England; divided by two more of Major Parnell's companies, and then 9 companies of Major Le Grice's battalion, 90th Regiment; eight companies of Major Rogers; and two guns of Major Le Grice's temporary battery, under Lieutenant Elliott. Inside the square were two companies of Engineers, with pontoons, and Commissariat stores, under Major John Chard and Captain Hutchinson, Royal Artillery; the Staff, regiments, the ammunition carts, water carts, ambulances, the Naval Brigade rocket carriers, and the Native Contingent, under Major Boneraph. Colonel Buller's Cavalry were scattered over the front and flanks, and two squadrons of lancers, under Major Dartnell, on the left rear. Lieut. Colonel Stone's Basuto, formed a rear guard, but they were scattered in front. On crossing the river a small body of Zulus were descried watching our movements from the opposite hill, but they fled when they saw the only scouts visible, but by the time the square was formed the Zulus in the first kraal, Umlambo Regimente, others and gathering from the hills around. The square wheeled to the right and in a position of which the left rear was refused, which Colonel Buller, with the advance cavalry, had noticed and pointed out to Lord Chelmsford. The enemy were in a long, almost in a line with the laager, and the square was halted, faced about, and settled, the cavalry, reconnoitering on the left flank; engaged and drove in the enemy hidden from our view by a rise in the ground. Almost simultaneously, Captain Barrow's battery opened fire on the enemy on the left of Undongwo kraal, and both came on with great rapidity. Captain Shrimsh on the left of Undongwo kraal, and both came on with great rapidity. Captain Shrimsh on the left of Undongwo kraal, and as they fell back great numbers of the Zulus swarmed out of the kraal. The dismounted men on all sides were engaged, firing as they retreated towards the square. The lines of the enemy were broken, and they drive them. The men then closed up, and the artillery ceased firing. Meanwhile the gunners made excellent practice, the Zulus in front showed great steadiness and courage in pace, their attack developing itself with considerable rapidity. In five minutes before but a few Zulus were to be seen, the wards Ulundi; now thousands upon thousands, in dense masses, were seen sweeping round the square. Shells were flying into the centre of the mass, and by firing from the front ranks of the infantry the leaders were killed, and the enemy's pressed volley firing commenced on all sides. At length these were entirely surrounded, and the fire was fearful and rapid. The principal effort was evidently to be made on the left rear, the ground from which Captain Stephenson's Basutos had been driven. There was a swarming in continuous streams, crossed the left flank, partially under cover of Undongwo kraal, and from the ground in front between, which appeared black with them, and the mounted men on all sides were ranged, firing as they retreated towards the square, the lines of the enemy

BELLEVILLE, THURSDAY, AUG. 14.

The Appointments under the Weights and Measures Act.

As was anticipated, the Canada Gazette of Saturday last contained the official announcement of the appointment of Mr. William Johnson, of Belleville, as Inspector of Weights and Measures for the County of Hastings, and Messrs. Ross and A. Wilkinson, of Canboy, and Thomas Cahill, of Peterborough, as Assistant Inspectors. The appointments are a reproduction of those appointments, as the gentlemen appointed are all excellently qualified for the large and important district, that of Mr. Johnson having been received with general approbation in this County.

The appointment of a resident of this city as Inspector for the large and important district, which includes the whole of the County Hastings, Prince Edward, Durham, Northumberland, Peterborough and Victoria—will, we believe, be generally satisfactory throughout the district. Belleville is not only entitled to the appointment as being the largest and most populous centre in the district, but also from the geographical as well as the commercial standpoint, Belleville, having part to Hastings on the east, Prince Edward on the south, Durham on the 10th August, on the west, and the northern part of Hastings, Peterborough, and Victoria on the north. The centre of all the lines of communication, and here it is that the largest number of the articles to be inspected are to be found. It is also the centre of the largest trade and manufacturing interests in the district, and the location of the office in this city will be of the greatest benefit to the whole district. In making the excellent and popular appointment which has been made, the Government has shown that the appointment is being distributed in the right hands. A resident of this city, and one who has been making the excellent and popular appointment which has been made, the Government has shown that the appointment is being distributed in the right hands. Card of Thanks.

To T. B. Palmer, Esq., Agent for the North British and Mercantile Insurance Co:

SIR,—I beg to thank the Company which you represent for the very prompt and liberal settlement of the loss by fire on my premises and of late barn-raising on the farm of Mr. Hughton; on the Township of Beninton, Durham, two nets, named Fox, Nightly and Wm. Richardson, were killed and nine others injured, some of them dangerously.

TRAFFIC RECEIPTS.—The Grand Trunk Railway traffic receipts for the week ending August 2 show an increase on the figures of the preceding week of $14,966; $5,000 of the amount is from passenger travel, and $11,000 from freight and live stock.

AGREEMENT TO THE HON. MR. MASKIN.—The Montreal Herald says that the Archbishop of St. Vincent de Paul to the city yesterday, the Hon. Mr. Maskin, Minister of Agriculture, to prevent rust nothing out for Ottawa until next week.

THE RELIEF HOUSE.—A despatch from Belfast gives the following particulars of the results of the riot which took place there on Tuesday afternoon between Orangemen and Catholics. Twenty-five persons were severely injured during the riot. Surgeons of the Hospital were kept busy all night dressing the wounds of the injured.

DEATH OF A CANADIAN.—The Picton Gazette says :—We have reason to believe that through the exertions of J. S. McCaig, M.P.—the requirements of the harbor there have been complied with, and the necessary grant from the government and with reasonable prospects of success.

THE CANADIAN PACIFIC RAILWAY.—The Ottawa Citizen says :—"In the House of Commons to-day Mr. W.C. Hall, examination bonder aboard, Mr. W.C. Hall, of Three Rivers, after five days' consideration, has declined to act. His salary is fixed at $486,000, and Mr. J. Ryan, of Brockville, has been called on to tender for it in the neighborhood of $540,000."

THE VOTER'S LIST.—As a little sam pic of how things sell in the Prairie Province, one Winnipeg man who leases a work factory imports 500,000 feet of lumber for this month St. Paul, and has just received from Chicago 1,000 kegs of nails, 1,000 sashes, and 500 doors, for the tycoonary of the West where the price of a nail is a penny. "Little house well-filled, and little wife well willed."

IMMIGRATION.—So far the immigration returns for the present season indicate the arrival of a much larger proportion of the agricultural class than for many years previous. Of the 6,000 who arrived at Quebec, who came to our shores with a small capital. They have settled principally in Ontario, where they fill the farming lands vacated by those who caught the Manitoba fever and "went west."

A RICH PRIZE.—A few days since word was telegraphed of the capture of a large remarkably rich gold lead in Montague district, N. S. Later reports indicates that the lead will prove richer than first supposed. A bar of gold was exhibited at Halifax, weighing nearly 400 ounces, and valued at $4,630, the result of the crushing of ten tons of quartz. Specimens to the value of $4,000 on the month's operations.

HALF-BREEDS CAPTURED.—A Washington despatch says that several days ago Lieutenant Ferry reported the arrival at a badcaptured, north of the Mississippi river, by let of the half-breed Canadians, who had fled from the selling Lands and Administration in the Indian country of the United States. Many of these are half-breeds, and that had the property captured is 143 carts and 149 horses. The capture of the half-breeds party is to be made of the captured men, women, and property to the Canadian authorities by the State, War, and Interior Departments, and probably will be decided shortly.

THE POTATO CROP IN IRELAND.—A Cork correspondent telegraphed on Saturday says that information has been received from Killavullen, county Cork, of the appearance of the potato disease in that neighborhood. The insect appears to have attacked a potato brought from the American champion, and to have made considerable havoc among the potatoes. The matter was reported to the constabulary, who proceeded to the place and brought back about two dozen of the insects, which bear a resemblance to the Colorado beetle. The disease in the Killavullen potato is the only kind which has been attacked.

THE EMBARGO ON CATTLE.—The Ottawa Citizen says:—"Some of the American papers have stated that the Canadian Government will not extend the order prohibiting the importation of cattle into the Dominion after the 6th of September. The matter is now under the consideration of the Government, and no decision action has as yet been taken, but it is understood to be more than probable that the present proclamation will be issued before the 6th proximo in order to protect Dominion herds and prevent the possibility of their being subdued by the disease existing in the States. It is pronounced that the Ministers of the Crown at present in England will have communication with the Privy Council on the subject."

THE DEATH OF THE LAKE.—The London Free Press says :—"A correspondent who has been sailing about the lakes for the past season to the great quantities of dead herring which appear on the surface. A moderate sized steamer will sometimes run for hours through something like 12,000 tons of dead fish afloat on the surface. This is the result of the heavy loss of fish, which seems special to Lake Ontario in the quarter where it is suspected. To Lake Erie no such thing is apparent. Fishing is carried on largely from the city of Buffalo, with its chemical gas oil and other factories, goes directly up the lake, and there is no loss of fish. Port Dover, Hamilton, may be the cause. Whatever it is, the loss is very related and very great, and negative to those communities who depend on Lake Ontario for their supply of fish as an important food, must result in a serious loss to the country."

THE RAILWAY AMALGAMATION.—A special cablegram to the Globe says :—"Captain Tyler has written a letter to the Duke of Buccleuch, the Scotch Railroad, which is published to-day, in reply to Mr. Childers' proposal. The letter states that the Scotch Railway Board is disinclined to agree to a division of the receipts according to mileage. It recommends a fusion of the which receipts of the two Companies on a percentage basis, according to agreed percentages. This settlement could easily be carried out. It would mean the utmost economy in working, and avoid a duplicate management, whereas the present arrangement involves a waste of expense, loss of time, and constant controversy. The Scotch Railway Board is said to favor of the Grand Trunk proposal, which is also favored by the Great Western. The Western shareholders, and will probably be carried out.

A CHARITABLE JOKE.—The Montreal Gazette says :—"Our Conservatives friends in Prince Edward are making merry over a little joke—though for the people's somewhat costly—which has been played on them by the Liberals. REQUISITION.

CIVIC HOLIDAY!

To His Worship the Mayor of the City of Belleville:

WE the undersigned Ratepayers and Residents of the Town, and no decision action has as yet been taken, but it is understood to be more than probable that the present proclamation will be issued before the 6th proximo in order to protect Dominion herds and prevent the possibility of their being subdued by the disease existing in the States. It is pronounced that the Ministers of the Crown at present in England will have communication with the Privy Council on the subject."

THE RAILWAY AMALGAMATION.—A special cablegram to the Globe says :—"Captain Tyler has written a letter to the Duke of Buccleuch, the Scotch Railroad, which is published to-day, in reply to Mr. Childers' proposal. The letter states that the Scotch Railway Board is disinclined to agree to a division of the receipts according to mileage. It recommends a fusion of the which receipts of the two Companies on a percentage basis, according to agreed percentages. This settlement could easily be carried out. It would mean the utmost economy in working, and avoid a duplicate management, whereas the present arrangement involves a waste of expense, loss of time, and constant controversy. The Scotch Railway Board is said to favor of the Grand Trunk proposal, which is also favored by the Great Western. The Western shareholders, and will probably be carried out.

WEEKLY INTELLIGENCER, THURSDAY, AUG. 14, 1879.

Special Notices.

Prescription Free

For the speedy Cure of Seminal Weakness, Loss of Manhood, and all disorders brought on by indiscretion or exposure. Any druggist has the ingredients. DAVIDSON & Co.,
12-1y 78 Nassau St., New York.

HOUSEHOLD TROUBLES ENDED.—For all sore throat, coughs, colds, etc., that have never found anything so prompt and effectual for the relief of the sufferer as Pulmonary Balsam as the N. H. Downs' Balsam. Why suffer? Get a bottle and take it without any delay, and she would be the best mother in the land. Sold by druggists. N. H. Downs' Elixir is for sale everywhere.

I PROVE ALL THINGS AND HOLD FAST THAT WHICH IS GOOD.—I have found Baxter's Mandrake Bitters have gained universal favor, and are used in preference to other sarsaparillas, because they are a vegetable preparation, and are not so severe in their action as to cause a relapse, as is frequently the case with the use of mineral mixtures, and I am pleased to say that the confidence I have reposed in them has not been misplaced, but they have given perfect satisfaction in every case. Yours truly, JOHN BROWN, Galts, Ontario. The product of a common sense.

BARRY.—Call at Barry's Gallery on Saturday a few hours and secure a set of teeth, for which you ordered slate as No. 2.

NEW TANK.—A new water tank has been erected on the corner of Pine and Mill Streets. This will be a great accommodation to the people generally, as it is much needed.

EXCURSION.—The steamer Kincardine is to run excursions to and from Sarnia on the Thousand Island Park on Wednesday, 20th inst. The trip will be a very pleasant one, and as the fare is only $1, it will doubtless be largely patronized.

THE GALWAY MINE.—The Peterborough Examiner learns that arrangements have been concluded between Mr. Mayor Hall and the managing director of the Galway Lead Mine, by an English company, to put that work off at once, and at an early day.

TERRENCE BARRON.—The work of repairing the structure is being proceeded with as rapidly as possible under the direction of Mr. John Francis, Deputy Surveyor. It will probably be reopened for travel by the end of next week.

CHEAP HAY.—The Norwood Register says:—"One of our leading farmers informed us, on Monday, that he had the hay crop was so great, and straw so plentiful, that hay would be sold at Norwood for a song, and a ton during the coming winter.

WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.—The appointees under the Weights and Measures Act for the Belleville district are Messrs. Hall & Co. for Ameliasburg, Belleville, Ivanhoe, Marysburg, Sidney, and Thurlow; Mr. J. A. Wilkinson, Cobourg, and Mr. Patterson, Peterborough, are the district Inspectors.

THE BARLEY CROP.—The Mill Point Mail says:—"Many farmers have sowed on the bush for the first time this season. It is all in a slightly soured, but will weigh well. It was put on the ground as it has been each other years, but all in all it may be called an average crop."

RAILWAY TRAFFIC.—Business on the North Hastings Railway continues brisk in every direction, the trains running between towns. Iron ore continues to be brought down in considerable quantities, and the other cargo of poplar wood will soon be in readiness for shipment.

WILLIAMSBURG.—On Tuesday evening, the 5th inst., Messrs. Harvey Detlor, of Mill Point, and Elgin Vanderwater, of Sidney, had a swimming match for a stake of $5 each. The race was from the old Mill Point to the Fredericksburg shore a distance of about one mile, for a single sculling boat. Detlor won by a length and a half.

SHERBROOK.—The Hamilton Times advocates the formation of swimming schools, with comparative displays and prizes for proficiency. This is a good one, and if carried out in every municipality in the Dominion would result in the saving of many lives each year.

WILLIAMSBURG.—Last Thursday evening the Rev. F. C. Williams, of Selby, whilst driving across the upper bridge, was thrown from the carriage and had his right leg fractured, which was being driven at a rapid rate, when the horse took fright at a passing rig." It has been represented to us that the driver of the rig was not to blame for the fault in the matter, and it is probable that he will be summoned before the Police Court.

$2 00 and 10cents postage, enclosed to Norton & Co., Druggists, Bridgeton, Cumberland County, for the Dominion, will insure a bottle containing one of the Pills, by return mail.

INVALIDS, do you wish to gather flesh, to recover an appetite, to enjoy a regular habit of body, to feel good and sleep well? If so, you know that every time and theme of your system is out of order and needs to be set right at once and use the Quinine Wine prepared by Northrop & Lyman Co., Toronto, Ont. It is a true tonic, and the entire system invigorated by making has purely round, should sometimes be taken. Consumption is the worst form of Scrofula. It is the most fatal and the most common disease, in what place they intend to cast their vote for Parliamentary purposes, and make a record of the same, which send to be opened in the hall. It was also moved that a second only exercise his franchise once, for the interesting subject, not feeling the dangers as referred to could very justly refuse him.

WESLEYAN AND MISSIONS.—We understand that Mr. Wilson Johnson, of this city, has been appointed Inspector of Weights and Measures for the Belleville District, which comprises the Counties of Lennox and Addington, Hastings, Prince Edward, Northumberland, Peterborough and York Riding. The appointment is an excellent one, as Mr. Johnson is not only thoroughly well qualified by ability and education to fill the office acceptably, but being active and energetic will make an excellent public officer. We congratulate Mr. Johnson on his appointment and the Government on the excellent choice which they have made.

RELIEF OF DERRY.

Celebration of the Anniversary in Belleville.

A GOOD DISPLAY BY THE 'PRENTICE BOYS.

In the month of December, 1688, the gates of the historic city of Londonderry were closed against the forces of James II., by his Protestant defenders, and on the 18th of April, 1689, the siege, which had been most gallantly sustained, was formally raised. The siege was pressed for 105 days, the besieged suffering terribly, particularly, although famine stalked amongst them, the besieged ate horses, dogs, cats, rats, mice, hides, tallow, and salted hides, and when relieved from 7,000 to 3,000 men. How the plans was relieved at last by the appearance of a ship with provisions which had passed across the harbor, by a transport which had run the gauntlet, which after going ashore was got off by the rebound of her own guns, and so gallantly served in setting forth as the most glorious pages of history. The besieged had been most gallantly defended, but they not only maintained their defences and so incensed the soldiers of Lord Antrim, in the north of Ireland, but killed 8,000 of their assailants as well. On the 12th of August, 1689, the siege was opened on the withdrawal of James' forces, and on the 28th of June, 1690, the siege was relieved by the trend of an invader, except in the north of Ireland, where, in the county of Donegal and the heroic fortitude of the defenders of Derry found a response in song and in story, and the anniversary of its relief has always been celebrated by the enthusiasm of the various Protestant organizations in Ireland and the Colonies.

Belleville, as usual, was not to have a celebration in Belleville of the one hundred and ninetieth anniversary of the Maiden City's relief. Preparations were made, invitations were issued, and the result was a grand celebration of the event.

From an early hour the streets began to assume a holiday appearance, and by 9 o'clock the headquarters of the various Protestant organizations, and from a few buildings. The Trenton Boys, Young Britons, True Blues and Orangemen were to be seen in their regalia, and the sashes and conveyances of various kinds began to arrive from the surrounding country, and whilst numbers of the citizens turned out on the holiday also, by 10 o'clock the streets were pretty well thronged, and by noon they were crowded with eager sight seers.

The first of the visitors from a distance to arrive were those from Madoc, who reached here by train at 9.30. The excursion party, which filled a passenger car, was headed by the Madoc band, and on their arrival marched to the hay crop was so great, and straw so plentiful, that hay would be sold at Norwood for a song, and a ton during the coming winter.

WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.—The appointees under the Weights and Measures Act for the Belleville district are Messrs. Hall & Co. for Ameliasburg, Belleville, Ivanhoe, Marysburg, Sidney, and Thurlow; Mr. J. A. Wilkinson, Cobourg, and Mr. Patterson, Peterborough, are the district Inspectors.

THE BARLEY CROP.—The Mill Point Mail says:—"Many farmers have sowed on the bush for the first time this season. It is all in a slightly soured, but will weigh well. It was put on the ground as it has been each other years, but all in all it may be called an average crop."

WILLIAMSBURG.—Last Thursday evening the Rev. F. C. Williams, of Selby, whilst driving across the upper bridge, was thrown from the carriage and had his right leg fractured, which was being driven at a rapid rate, when the horse took fright at a passing rig." It has been represented to us that the driver of the rig was not to blame for the fault in the matter, and it is probable that he will be summoned before the Police Court.

THE DOMINION EXHIBITION.—The prize list of this show, which is to be held in Toronto from the 22nd to the 27th of September, is of a very attractive nature, and the show will have several special features that will be almost worth a trip to Ottawa to see. It should be quite a number of the visitors from this section will be present. The following extract from the WEEKLY INTELLIGENCER gives dates for making entries and other particulars:

THE HUNTINGTON BOYS.—We understand that the Belleville and North Hastings Agricultural Society and the Huntington Boys Ex-Law which was to have been held on the 19th inst., has been postponed two weeks, in consequence of the very general dissatisfaction and pronounce manifested throughout the Township. It is a pity that in connection with this matter that the Agricultural Society did not any of the stations within the Township.

THE GRAND JUNCTION.—Mr. Bickford informs us that he has made arrangements with the Grand Trunk authorities for the running of excursion trains from Toronto, and that a daily train between Belleville and Toronto will commence running as soon as possible—probably before the close of the present week. Will the Peterborough Review, which published a number of totally different character, correct its erroneous statement?

HARVEST IN HUNGERFORD.—The crops in this Township are, as a general thing all good, and the farmers are busily engaged in threshing. From all accounts barley is one of the best crops of the season. Oats are likewise good; and those who fortunately sowed fall wheat secured a splendid crop. Spring wheat is far below the average. Roots are looking well; potatoes will be plentiful; and corn will be a good crop, because for compliant, if prices range fairly.

WESTERN FAIR AT LONDON.—The Montreal Witness says:—"Messrs. Bostin & Co., are expecting daily the arrival of machinery from Belleville, Ont., for the manufacture of a good quality of writing and wrapping paper, which they will soon be about to begin in Valleyfield. This is the first attempt in this country to make goods of this kind in Canada, and the event is one, we should, be regarded as another victory for the National Policy."

NEW $5 BILL.—In consequence of the serious counterfeiting of the $5 bill, the Directors of the Bank of Commerce have, as an exchange about to issue a new bill of that denomination, which is described as follows:—Vignette, Britannia seated, with Commerce in the centre, below the place of that of the Queen's head; on the left the portrait and signature at the lower left hand corner instead of the right, as in the old bill. The border surrounds the whole, with the figure "5" on each corner, and in the centre "Canada 5 cents" at each end. The "reverse" is also changed, with the figure "5" at each corner of Arms in the centre, and the figure "5" at each end.

BISHOP O'HEARN'S SUCCESSOR.—The Kingston Whig understands that the Rev. Father Cleary is the probable appointment to the vacant See of Kingston. Father Cleary is a man of great ability, and whose knowledge in regard to the affairs of the Diocese of Kingston, and which shall not be all surprised if the Very Rev. Father Cleary is appointed. The Whig is of the opinion that if the appointment of Father Cleary is confirmed by the Pope it will be universally known throughout the Province of Ontario as a faithful and zealous priest, and one well qualified to fill the important office of Bishop with becoming honor to himself and to the Church. We are not cognizant of the opinion of the Kingston Whig in this matter, but we do not doubt that the Reverend Father Cleary will receive the hearty respect the exalted position they have filled with so much credit to themselves, and esteemed by all classes and creeds throughout the Diocese.

A GOOD SUGGESTION.—Nothing the interest of the Dominion has been more neglected than voters' lists, the Stratford Beacon suggests that a census should be carried out advantageously, and would obviate a difficulty about voters' lists which has always existed. In addition, while it would render unnecessary the labors that took of swearing each elector at the sections, and to the effect that the assessment in making his yearly round, should ascertain the names of persons entitled to vote in his own division, in what place they intend to cast their votes for Parliamentary purposes, and make a record of the same, which send to be opened in the hall. It was also moved that a second only exercise his franchise once, for the interesting subject, not feeling the dangers as referred to could very justly refuse him.

ALLEGED BIGAMY.

The Parties Under Arrest.

Not a little excitement was created in town on Monday by the announcement that Arthur Bonter, proprietor of the Ferry House, and Miss Annie Mitchell, the daughter of Mrs. Annie Mitchell, the keeper of a well-known house of ill-fame, were at the Ferry Farm," just beyond the city limits on the Kingston road, had been arrested on a charge of bigamy, and assuming a false name and in story, and the anniversary of its relief has always been celebrated by the enthusiasm of the various Protestant organizations in Ireland and the Colonies.

IN PERIL BY WATER.

COLLISION ON THE LAKE.

The Persia Badly Damaged.

KINGSTON, Aug. 13.—The propeller Persia, and an unknown schooner, collided last night off Point Frenger, Lake on Lake Ontario. The Persia arrived here this morning pretty badly damaged, but certainly not of a dangerous nature. The schooner was not damaged. A vote of thanks to the officers and crew was ordered to be passed by the passengers.

THE ZULU WAR.

Bushing and Cetewayo, Royal Brigade, six infantry and two cavalry regiments will be engaged.

Some accounts state that Sacocoeni in the north is not yet subdued, and without doubt will show what a regular can dollar bottle will do for it. Kirk's Compound, Kirk's Cough Compound, and take no other. Jas. Clarke & Co., Druggists.

Among the Luxuries of Life,

But a brief period has passed since when a month's time was necessary to accomplish a journey between Toronto and Halifax, and the west lumbering over the rough country, highways or navigation was the only mode of journey is made in sumptuous drawing room cars, and the journey accomplished in many of the luxuries brought to us by servants. Once more we have been on the wing, and once more health we set apart a brief period to the Falls of Niagara, and there a stroke of that awful Castor Oil. Now we sip it from the tasteless and nauseous mixture of old concoctions. But it is SCOTT & BOWNE'S PALATABLE COD LIVER OIL we take. It is one of the luxuries of life that is afforded at 25 cents.

A COLLEGE PROFESSOR once said that "he was signed to see that he was a man, must not experience on the floor." Much of the hawking and spitting is caused by catarrh, which the professor knew could be cured by the use of a few bottles of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy.

By the use of Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites the blood is invigorated and vitalized and purified, and so made capable of producing sound mind, and a sound body

DESIRE.—It is not only well prepared and in every way a perfect hair dressing, but it is well that it is prepared, as the public have long suffered for the want of a healthful hair invigorating and pleasant hair dressing. Sold by druggists.

I have been a sufferer from Indigestion and violent Sick Headache for upwards of fifteen years. I have consulted many of the Faculty, but have derived no material benefit from any of their prescriptions. I tried Parr's Davis' Pain Killer, which, I am happy to state, has given me more good than all I ever tried before.

BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTER.

A WONDERFUL REMEDY.

There is no connection between it and the common slow acting porous plaster. It is in every way superior to all other external remedies, including Liniments and the so called Electric Belts. It combines new and peculiar chemical elements which in combination with rubber produce a powerful, continuous pain relieving, strengthening and curative properties. Any Physician in your own locality will confirm the above statement. For LAME BACK, Kidney Troubles, Female Complaints, Rheumatism and Neglected Colds and Coughs, Diseased Lungs, Weak Stomach, Sore Chest, Affections of the heart, and all ills for which porous plasters are used, it is the best known remedy. Price 25 cents. Sold by all Druggists. Prepared only by Benson, Soldan & Co., Chemists, Montreal & Johnson, 21 Platt Street, New York.

BRENNAN & VANDERVOORT
Proprietors.

THE undersigned having leased the above premises for a term of years, are prepared to purchase all kinds of grain, also all kinds of coal, at reasonable rates.

The large number of RIGS enables us to pay more attention to grading than any other on the premises. We are also the agents for the Railways and Steamboats, farmers need have no fears of beans being scared or annoyed in any way.

All roads approaching the premises are being put in first class repair.

Having first class facilities for receiving grain, we can tshajn from wagons 1,000 bushels per hour.

The many years' experience we have had in the grain trade, and the confidence reposed and placed in us by our many friends, has decided us to build the above commodious premises on the Bay, and we trust our old friends will appreciate the advantage offered.

We stands beside the cottage door
To watch the dying day,
And mould into a golden ball
With fingers of silver gray
The sunset's fire and amber haze
That lingers in the western skies
To melt into the darker hues
Of night that slowly rise.

And many a thousand thoughts will fall
Across that man so proud,
As he looks on the glorious sight
On sea and sky unbroken,
And sees the sun's last golden ray
Fade into twilight gray.
And all the while he stands alone
A stranger yet to faith unto sight

Recovering Milk at the Factory.

(From the American Dairyman.)

It becomes the duty of our creaming milk to see that it is delivered in proper condition. Experience, a good eye, and a good nose are all useful assistants. Even with the use of all these, mistakes will sometimes occur, but the vat that never ought to be there. It is necessary to insist or abuse him, not to make a general exposure, but to do our duty regardless of him. He should be kindly informed of the fact, told what the trouble is, and told that he will be the last one to remove the evil. If you do not take this course, you soon see your patrons' regrets at his misfortune, and show him that you cannot cause great loss to others, which must necessarily fall on you, and which must necessarily fall on himself. If the cause is obscure, and you are not able to discover it, insist that you will be relieved to refuse it in the future. In most cases, more words with him are unnecessary, and you have the advantage, for the latter can but public sentiment are on your side. But with a reasonable man, it will be best for you to more than call his attention to the fact that the milk is sour, and request him to search for it. Many cases great loss is done by this neglect. Many times a word will help, and in most cases will be sufficient to work to apply the remedy.

The importance of delivering milk in good condition is more and more fully acknowledged every year, and not a few patrons prefer to patronize a factory where a good milk or any of their neighbors. It is well to encourage this feeling by showing that we can not only take pains with his milk. Nothing is worse than indifference to quality. Nothing is more fatal to success in any business, creamery or otherwise. Nothing is more fatal to success in any business, creamery or otherwise. A shower-maker needs friends if anybody succeeds his patrons. If he does not show that he is not likely to get them at all.

Cheese will be worth for six months of hard, thankless toil and care are likely to waste away in body and mind.

The greatest difficulty is usually experienced in old fashioned, where the cows are generally pastured upon the meadows and pastures, and have full feed. In such cases the patron has developed a better knowledge of the requirements of cheese-making, and will submit to be taught, be trained, and a sensible cheesemaker, who knows what he is about, and who knows how to do it, almost anything at the opening of a new factory. He will see them into the habit of taking good care of their milk. The best of patrons, however, when everything starts off loosely, the old adage, that "it is hard to teach old dogs new tricks," is not to be accomplished. The patrons dislike innovations, and they are apt to think that in particular wishes to put them to useless trouble, and for the purpose of making the cheese rather to grevel at him, and to feel that what was good enough for them in the top than below the surface. A roller will break many.

DRAINAGE AGAIN.—Many farmers are testing the practice of cultivating wheat. We hear of the most experimental in this direction, and these have generally turned out satisfactorily. Cultivating and hoeing is rarely done by drilling the wheat in 16-inch rows, by skipping every alternate space. It is not difficult to construct a simple cultivator that will work the spaces between the rows, and by this different wheat hoe in the market that do the work effectively. What this is done there is reason to be cultivated. This fact, and the better condition of the land where it is cultivated, is the chief inducement to use the drill, if the cost of 200 or 300 lbs. of artificial fertilizer.

LIME AND LIME.—Lime is an old-fashioned fertilizer, but it should not for that reason be neglected. It is cheap and it will be found to pay well for its use when land is to be seeded to grass and clover. Fifty bushels per acre of air-slacked lime is usually spread from the waggon with a long broom-like brush over the plowed ground, and harrowed in with the seed. It will do no harm to put on a little lime instead of all the manure if it is harvested in at once.

SPRING LIME.—Some prefer to spread for the taking away, at any gas works. It is at least worth the cost of carting a couple of miles, and it should not be used while it is fresh. If hauled now it may be laid in heaps and be left to be used in the second spring or on land to be fall ploughed, and spread about the last of the fall or spring. A moderate sprinkle is needed to free it from injurious gases, which pass off in a few days, and 3 months it becomes carbonate of lime, or mild lime, with a considerable portion of what it lime is gained by its union with it.

SPARE LANDS.—No better time than the present offers for the clearing of swamp lands. To cut off the trees, grub out the stumps, and sow some grass and sorgo, and burn them on a dry day, will leave the surface clear of rubbish in dry enough to plow or break up. We find a dark barrow, now, as the Whole, or new and valuable land, and the old but excellent idea of sharp stone disks, to be more effective than the old. The ground when cut up fine may be seeded to grass at once, with a good chance for a successful crop. On swamp land a good dressing of lime will be found generally useful.

DRAINS.—Cut these while the ground is dry. If you have been prevented from so not previously, the work can be done now, at half the cost of doing it when the ground is full of water. This season is better than any other for reclaiming swamp meadows.

PASTURE that have been cut for pasture should be cut and cured for winter. Sweet corn stalks, from which the ears have been pulled for market, should not be left to waste, but cut up and cured as soon as the crop is off the ground and put in shocks by themselves, and sown to white turnips. There should be a stalk-cutter of fodder or of grass, and every little saving that is possible should be made.

WHITE TURNIPS may be sown this month, and yield a valuable crop. The cow-horn, white Dutch, and flat-top stone, are the best growing varieties, will make a good growth before the ground is frozen up.

FALL FOLLOWING.—Experience proves, every season, the wisdom of ploughing as much as possible for spring crops in the fall, fall ploughing has the benefit of following to some extent the same principle as one of the more advantages are derived from it; it is more beneficial on heavy than on light, but light land cannot always fail to be improved by it.

MARKET AND BEETS.—Root crops and field cabbages need frequent cultivation during this month, and up to the time when the rows become nearly closed by their growth, for as long as the roots are found along the rows the soil should be stirred deeply. Sugar-beets are sweeter the deeper they are rooted in the soil, and though the sugar beets may be carried up, but manure and plenty of room for the roots to grow stirring the soil is sufficient. This when seeded and pull all the weeds that start in the rows.

CLOVER SEED.—Clover that was mown early for hay may be ready to cut for seed this month. If cut early, the soil may be replied to the use of it, and the crop of seed has been taken off furnishes rich soil for a crop. The land may be plowed or ploughed with a jointer plough, and the ground well rolled, or the seed may be sown loosened up with a cultivator before sowing.

HORSES.—A run at pasture at night will be useful for a team, but either the pasture should be of the best, or the horses will receive a food of grain before being turned out; pasture will not keep them in flesh for a tired horse that is kept at work every day.

CARE OF THE FEET.—Work horses are subject to have dry and brittle hoofs while ploughing in the spring. Frequent washing and application of glycerine or cosmoline, or some kind of grease, will soften horn and remedy the brittleness. At this season unshod is done by rubbing the hoofs often on too long. It is necessary to remove shoes to accommodate the growth of the hoof; others no there is danger that the hoof may become bound.

Pure Water a Household Necessity.

It is of the most vital importance to health to ascertain the quality of the well water in the household is wholly dependent upon this source for its supply. Great care should be taken that it does not contain the salts of lime in excess, which renders the water hard and use hideous, or soluble animal matter, either of which may be hurtful to your self and the water still be excessively brilliant. If the water carries soap well it is hard; it is good, but if the latter separates into flakes the water is injurious to health if drunk without first precipitating the lime salts which it contains, and which, when drunk, are by the heat of the stomach, and poor health, obstinate constipation and diarrhœa, premature gray hair and many other disorders, among which may be mentioned rheumatism due to the water's mineral forms, follow. While water that is absolutely pure is not required to perfectly maintain health, it is essential that it should contain no putrefactive matter. The presence of certain animalcule in the water does not injure the system, except when they are dead and putrid.

A WILD TORNADO.—A wild tornado swept over Woodstock on the 6th inst., blowing down trees and chimneys and breaking glass in several residences which were exposed to the blast. Farmers complain of great damage done to wheat by the storm. Waterloo, followed by rain and hail, some of the stones being as large as a hazel nut.

PARIS LETTER.

(Regular Correspondence.)

PARIS, July 18th, 1879.

By a small majority the French Senate has passed the bill for the return of the Legislature to Paris.

The debate on this question is one which foreigners are especially entitled to endorse. Without going into the history of France, which would be necessary to explain the feelings of the Senate, it is clear that Paris is, to a Frenchman of considerable importance, what London, Berlin, Vienna, Rome, Madrid are to Europeans. Paris has attractions for Spaniard. Paris has features of actual and real interest to the world which none can afford. Paris is the centre of thought, politics, and in its salons or in the public halls, in its cafés, restaurants, theatres, in its public or social reactions, are made or unmade. Reputations, whether substantial or shadowy, are made here. There is all the romance and picturesque which Regnault could depict in the famous picture called Paris. Victor Hugo considers it the centre of the world, and he is convinced that there was sacrilege in the German bombardment which destroyed the Paris, he proposed, devoted to what Shakespeare calls "this earth, this realm, this England." "Paris," said Victor Hugo, "is an immense hospitable city," and in consequence of this "it is the welcome of all the world." Whether these sentiments are excellent, but if they are true, they are the reasons why Paris is the welcome of all the world, and why every individual who surrounds Paris; its population, its interests, its prosperity, its very existence fights against overwhelming odds have frequently to struggle with individual daring cannot be disguised. Paris has never been afraid of danger, never shrunk from death or even rush upon it with a cool courage or fanatical fury. Its courage is the courage which becomes of the stage. The bold, however, that the courage of the Parisian is the sign equally disguised. There were four hundred Parisians who went to the Crimea; but they literally did nothing notable except to show that they could be killed. Not more than the next day. To anybody who knows the Parisian character this result is not at all surprising. The physical organization of a Parisian does not seem to test their fitness for military service. Their nervous system is overwrought by the influence of city air and city habits on the contrary, and consequently their self-control will submit to no long strain

How to Succeed in Life.

Mr. Robert Lowe, M. P., ex-Chancellor of the Exchequer, said recently in an address to the students of the University of London:

"I am a person who has had to struggle hard in the battle of life, and I will tell you what I believe to be the secret of success—the merits of success in life, and that is that I believe that there is no man or woman in life so much so strict and so severely disciplined as the man who has to make his own way in the world. It is the custom to say that youth is the time for enjoyment, and that is true enough; but youth have provided that enjoyment for themselves. Youth is the time for work. Youth is the time for study. The earth and the air and the sea seem to open to the young of all nations; but when they get older these delights are closed to them, and they have to enter upon the more adventurous and expensive pleasures of middle life and old age. I believe that was everyone of you is to consider that when you go into the battle of life you have to fight your own battle, to rely on your own strength, to look to yourself, to be interested to the utmost of your power in the success of your own undertakings, and to make up your mind that you should keep clear of debt, and that you should endeavor to lay up something for the future in case of sickness or other misfortune. I believe that it is the duty of a duty which is not generally sufficiently inculcated—I believe that it is the duty of a man, if he can, to put by something for the future, if you believe well and do your duty all the difficulty in the world will not keep you down. It is the first advance which men and women make which costs them the most trouble. The factors. The beginnings of life are all overwhelmed with difficulties, but they are only a great competition; but when people have once got a little way and proved that they are worthy, all the rest is comparatively easy. It is the first pitch and toss which is the most severe for strangers, and my experience is that when the good sense is generally seen, it is very easy to get to persons who have advanced one or two steps before you, and even after you have established with persons fit for the place, first and last you are sure to fit for it. Therefore your object in life should be to begin with that great competing situation and self-denial so to make the first step so to distinguish yourself as to be noticed by persons who are in authority and selected by understanding is above their vanity and consumption; in proportion as they are more disposed to listen to the voice, and to the wise and good. In preference to the flattery of fawners. Society cannot exist, unless a controlling power upon will and appetite by general submission; and the best life is there is within, the more there is of willing submission to control, the more there is of intelligence and virtue in the constitution of things that men of intemperate minds are not to free; they possess no large share of freedom.

Are The Cauldren Home?

Each day when the day of work is done
Pause in the weary, tired race,
And the wee ones, tired of playing,
Do climb on your knee and say,
"Mother, dear mother,
Are the children home?"

Then you look at the little faces
That soon will be old and gray,
And sing with your mother's heart,
Their faces fresh and fair.

Alone in the dear old homestead,
That once was full of life,
Ringing with girlish laughter,
Echoing boyish shout,
We two are waiting together,
And oft, when the day is done,
With trembling voice we say,
"It is sad, sad that the children home?"

"You, love," I answer him gently,
"There is all home for you,
And I sing in my quivering trouble,
A song of the old refrain,
Till the old man drops to slumber,
And I'm left to my dreams again,
And I talk to myself the number,
As home in a home should be.

Home, where never a sorrow
Shall dim their even with tears,
Where never a cloud shall darken
Through all the summer years,
Where the arms are never empty
That long to hold them so,
And the mother heart within me,
Is filled with pain and woe.

Sometimes, in the dusk of evening,
I only shut my eyes,
And the children are all about me,
A vision from the skies
Is the home that never lingers
Lost the way to my breast,
And the children are all about me,
Passed to the world of the blest.

A breath and the vision is lifted
Away on the wings of love,
And I am alone and laughter
Has fled with the light,
Then sit and wait for the coming
And the mother heart within me,
Is filled with pain and woe.

Sometimes, in the summer sunset
I raise mine eyes to the west,
And the wee ones, tired of playing,
Lie breathless to rest,
My husband calls from his corner,
"Are the children all home?"
And I answer with eyes upturned,
"Yes, dear; they are all at home."

Punctuality at Church.

A certain bridegroom told of in hair writes that the door in the face of certain virgins was locked, and that in consequence of the salutary example has not been followed as extensively as might be desired. Punctuality is here admitted of a development of the commendable character, and the bridegroom will not be so frequent nowadays of the wait of Penelope suitors, or of the wait of Micah, grieving at their place of worship.

Laymen are not the only ones at fault, they seem upon the benches during the interminable formalities of a synod meeting, and the formalities of religion are to be published abroad, are generally to be appearing at the appointed hour to engage in the solemn duty. It is painful loss to engage in the worship of God.

Men who would discharge, as well as they rarely do, the duties of life, being five minutes late at business, come clattering through the church doors when the service is well engaged in prayer.

Women who would upset a set of blue china if it stood in the way of their reaching to what is dear to them, are careless and indecently and up the church aisle while the minister is reading the first lesson.

Reprehensible is too mild a term to apply to a want of punctuality in attendance upon the Word which most fitly describes such conduct. Punctuality is a virtue which in five hundred where there is a shadow of excuse for its lack. Punctuality in appointments, and this offence in the sight of God. Punctuality in the house of God is a virtue which one goes to worship God in the spirit and in truth. Punctuality in the house of God is a unit in the union of praises when His presence is approached.—Toronto Telegram.

Neglect of the Eye.

Whatever an excess of prevention may be worth in the matter of health, it is true that many pounds of cure to the ounce. Like a well-constructed watch, the eye will not long stand any amount of use, not to say abuse, without showing signs of fatigue, and it is very rarely to brought back to its original perfection of sight. Miscellaneous.

There is a set uncommon danger in family government from which we would warn every one of our readers to guard. It is the danger in the case that fathers and mothers have their children's love, and that they are willing to stand any amount of use, not to say abuse, from them rather than lose it. Children are very rarely to be

QUEBEC, August 20.—The 9.45 A.M. Railway, which arrived here at 10.45, P.M., brought down Mr. Justice Stevenson and Mr. Lavoie, who, on the arrival of the train at the Point Levis, proceeded to the first class car received by the Chief of Police, Mr. Hall, who, on entering the car, passed through the window, and one of the second class passengers was pointed out to the police on the head. There was quite a panic in the car, and the passengers all the cars were badly smashed.

LATEST DESPATCH.

10.30 A. m.—At this time the city is quiet; nevertheless, there are traces of the riot of yesterday. Barricades are still in the streets, and the police are still on duty. The military are still quartered in the Drill Shed, and are fully equipped, having received ammunition. The Mayor has issued a proclamation to get hold of the rioters participated in the riot, and the Government is continually passed of.

WHAT WILL BE NEXT?

The authorities themselves are not satisfied that the trouble is over, and they say that the next chance as unknown. Universal condemnation is heard in regard to the conduct of the Mayor, stupidity, inactivity and inattention to the requirements of the hour. Even at this late hour he is not in a position to bring the riot under control. The civic authorities are

BELLEVILLE, THURSDAY, AUG. 14.

The City's Water Supply.

In nearly every respect the absolute necessities of our city are as well provided for as those of the generality of places of similar magnitude with regard to supply of water both for domestic and for fire purposes. Whilst a sufficiency of water is found for all purposes, whether for drinking or for the use of springs in the greater part of the city; yet the low-lying portions of the south and west wards, the east end of Dundas Ward, and also parts of Coleman and Murney Wards, are totally unsupplied during the summer months by reason of the inconvenience—in fact not a little suffering—is annually occasioned to the residents of those portions of the city by reason of this want of the essential element.

Various plans have been suggested for supplying the deficiency, the principal of which were the drawing of a supply from the river or the bay by the Holly system and the second by means of which water is obtained, and the plan proposed by Professor Bell of procuring the supply from the Moira Lake. The former plan has been variously named. The latter plan appears to us to be decidedly preferable, as the water is of the purest and will remain in a state of purity for many months without any change. The difficulty which lies in the way, and which in fact prevents the adoption of either of the above proposals, is the want of funds. The majority of the Corporation will not permit of the construction of a system of water-works, as there appears to be a fear that the water company engaged in the undertaking, as the cost of the necessary excavations in the rock would be very heavy.

Lately, however, propositions have been made by parties which,in our opinion demand their serious consideration. The most important of these is that of the Hon. Alexander Pinkerton, M.P., the following effect: Mr. Read offers, for the consideration of $600 per annum, to supply for a term of 20 years, the water required for use on the old distillery property, Dundas Street, to four tanks at places to be designed by the Corporation, and hydrants to the gallon of water per day; he to be at all the expense of laying down the pipes, building and erecting the tanks and hydrants, the work to be under the supervision of the Waterworks Committee of the Corporation. Mr. Read further stipulated that if the supply should fail for any cause he would not only receive nothing in payment for the quantity not received; but that if he performed his part of the bargain satisfactorily he would receive a considerable sum out of the matter, receive, as an advance on account of rental, a sum sufficient to repay him for the cost of pipes and laying down the same.

We are as a rule opposed to doing things by halves, but the necessities of the case are such that they ought to be met in the most speedy system it plainly out of the question. Mr. Read's proposition is therefore deserving of careful consideration, and by having it in the advantageous and to the public interest, we are prepared to recommend its adoption. The daily supply of 25,000 gallons will be sufficient when such as that which is obtained from his spring, would be sufficient for the requirements of the city, and would be sufficient for the purpose of fire protection. Should the supply would also afford a considerable surplus from the tanks for fire purposes in the districts that they would be located, and which is now but poorly provided in that respect. Further, if the terms proposed are not satisfactory and no agreement can be come to, the spring might be purchased by the Corporation and utilized. The matter is one which should be at once delayed by accepting the generous offer of Alderman Farley, who proposes to give the free use of a spring on his premises near the Bay of Quinte Railway for the use of the poor. With these two projects carried into effect, there would remain but small difficulty in providing the whole city with the needful supply of water, but the value such as to be a mere bagatelle in comparison with the benefits which would accrue to the people. The chances are that during the present year we will have this source of

MANHOOD:
HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental or Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from self-abuse.

Price (in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences may be radically cured without the use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and thoroughly.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Sent under seal, in a plain envelope, to any address, on receipt of six cents or two postage stamps.

LOOKING BACK.

A barefooted child, by the meadow side,
Sees down the years a man with scythe and rake
And turning, swings her head, with a long sigh
Over sunny fields, with spicy flowers gay,
Where she is looking back.

With bright face saddened a young girl leans
On the window sill, and with a long, long look
Leaving the scenes that parting means,
Sees a world waiting, with hopes, mean
A child again in happy dreams
Looking back.

Then all through the world, where'er we turn,
There are sighing hearts, and eyes that burn
With tears, and thoughts still born
Within us, and we are looking back.

But angels, kneeling before the throne—
The loved ones found, the long race run—
Will look no more on the past, for there
Their eyes "the King in his glory" see.
Yes, in his presence we shall be
No looking back.

HAMP.

Heaven is open every day;
A light on it
Is that would wond his upward way
Through the night.
There is no wall to that demesne
Which God encloses for a season
To hide the glories of that scene,
If man will.

The lather which the Hebrew saw
When as he slept,
Reaches, in spite of our dull sight,
But still hath kept
And sends with every day and hour
Its ornate swiftly glide and slow,
Fair love sheen, though we know
Its rounds have slept.

The tenant the sixth daily mount
Is ever near,
Carries to wish to take account
Of those who hear
Its voice, and who, awake or sleep,
Are ever ready to climb up the steep
Which leads to heaven and the key,
In peace, or wars.

Who loves and lifts his fellow-man,
Lifts God;
He walks with God who works for man;
He walks abroad
Holds position close, and fully scans,
Who finds in every thing he sees

BELLEVILLE, PROVINCE OF ONTARIO, COUNTY OF HASTINGS, THURSDAY, AUGUST 28, 1879. VOL. 46, NO. 29.

AN AUGUST DAY.

Over the fields by winding ways
We wandered on, my love and I,
Under the flashing azure skies,
In a land of fruit and sunshine wealth,
Round about us, far and near,
We found the luscious bounty spread
And the water-melon lovely pink
Tempted out its cooling core.

Bird songs out of the emulit oak
Fell on the ear, and through the shadow,
Like a flame of flame the cardinal flower
Burned with its crimson heart.
Into our hearts the hillside wind blew,
In our love pledged,
And all things laughed in the happy earth
For the year was at the prime.

Two roamed with their eyes slight,
And their hearts too still for laughter,
Two only in all the world,
Locked hither and thither
In the sweet spell of dawning love.
Two, with dimmest fear
Lest our passion God from a trembling heart
That the shadow of pain were near.

Where People Don't Belong.

Persons are often in doubt whether they are just where they belong in the world. They wish to know the exact spot to fill, and of duty. Thus they could stand first at any at every end. It is not always to give such persons all the help they desire on this point; but one thing we can tell them, and that is this: They have no call to stand for asleep muscles in the world's great workshop. They are not an office, or any public building or room whatsoever. They are not a part of any such thing. They have by their duty to stand still before they reach that doorway; or after they have passed through it. They are not in any sense for them to stand in the doorway for a single moment. They are not to go in, and they are not to turn down the street, to look back, to wait for anybody, or to look at anything. It does not matter whether they shall go out or stay in, or which way they shall turn, or what they shall do next. The instant they are at the doorway they cease to be in their place. They are nowhere set sins in this world, and one of the most interesting problems in human life is the study of public resort. The sinners who do the go to the theatre, the opera, the ball, the party, the church, the prayer-meeting, the lecture, the concert, the ball-room, the billiard-room, the bar-room, the gambling-house, the race-course, the club-house, the watering-place, the fashionable promenade, the Central Park, the Coney Island beach, the Long Branch hotel, the Saratoga hotel, the Newport villa, the Fifth Avenue mansion, the Madison Square theatre, the Union Square concert-hall, the Bowery dance-house, the Chatham Square oyster-saloon, the Wall Street banking-house, the Nassau Street newspaper office, the Broadway omnibus, the Sixth Avenue elevated railroad station, the Hudson River steamboat, the Brooklyn ferry-boat, the Jersey City railroad car, the Hoboken beer-garden, the Staten Island farm, the Harlem lodge, the Riverside Drive, the Boulevard, the Central Park, the Prospect Park, the Greenwood Cemetery, the Potter's Field, the Tombs, the Penitentiary, the Lunatic Asylum, the Almshouse, the Hospital, the Dispensary, the Medical College, the Law School, the Theological Seminary, the Academy of Design, the Art Gallery, the Museum of Natural History, the Public Library, the Mercantile Library, the Cooper Institute, the Young Men's Christian Association, the Young Women's Christian Association, the Home for Friendless Women, the Home for Friendless Children, the Home for Friendless Men, the Home for Friendless Boys, the Home for Friendless Girls, the Home for Friendless Old People, the Home for Friendless Young People, the Home for Friendless Middle-aged People, the Home for Friendless Everybody, the Home for Friendless Nobody, the Home for Friendless Anybody, the Home for Friendless Somebody, the Home for Friendless Anything, the Home for Friendless Something, the Home for Friendless Nothing, the Home for Friendless Everything

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 22.—3,000 cases makers have struck at Stourport, Worcestershire, in consequence of 10,000 unemployed laborers in idleness.

The Times says that the resignation of Childerdine by the Ministry of Lord Salisbury, from the Ministry of India, seems to be taken as proof that the Government of India will be in the hands of the extension of Knight to China.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—General Wolseley telegraphs that the Ashantee King has refused Commerce, and the number will be increased to 1,000 men. The Ashantees are said to be there forces coming from the interior. The Governor of Sierra Leone has issued a proclamation declaring the intention the Japanese can impose on the Ashantees to make peace. The Times disapproves of the annual and co-operation of the Government with the Ashantee war. It generally expresses the opinion that the Japanese will be compelled to make peace, and that favorable measures would have been justified in the abolition of guards. A special says a record fall fell on the 21st inst. in Ireland.

WARSAW, Aug. 22.—The Court Martial has tried and convicted the officers who were implicated in the recent mutiny. Those who had taken the Siberian mines for opposing the dismissal of Count Berg, and for inciting others to terms of exile and imprisonment for the term of their lives.

DUBLIN, Aug. 22.—The Home Rule league held a demonstration at Cork to-day, which was addressed by the members of Parliament present. THE GREAT FEMALE REMEDY.

JOB MOSES' PILLS.

This invaluable medicine is unfailing in the cure of all those painful complaints peculiar to the sex to which the female constitution is subject. It strengthens the whole system, purifies the blood, regulating and strengthening the system, forcing from the system all impurities of the blood and bile, and when taken in middle of old age, prevents that change of life being dangerous. Any lady who takes these Pills should be said for two or three days previous to taking them, as they will act more powerfully on the bowels, and thereby prevent any inconvenience being felt. Full directions are given in the pamphlet around each box, which should be carefully read before commencing to take these Pills. Sold by all druggists, or will be sent by mail, on receipt of price, by addressing JOB MOSES, Box 957, Montreal, P.Q.

$1 97 and 14 cents postage, enclosed to North-rop and Lyman, wholesale druggists, Toronto, for the Dominion, will insure a bottle, prepaid, by return mail. Sold by druggists.

INVALIDS, do you wish to gather flesh, to acquire an appetite, to enjoy a regular habit of body, to obtain refreshing sleep, to feel and know that every fiber and tissue of your system is being braced and built up? Then procure at once and use the Quinine Wine prepared by Caldwell, Hance & Co., and you will be surprised at the rapidity with which strength invigorated and strengthened. It is a medicine of merit, and one that has been used in the Caldwell family for many years at the busy season of the year. Those who have suffered from the effects of overwork, or close confinement, or from any debilitating cause, will find this combination will be found superior to all other preparations of the kind. Those who suffer from chronic sour and choice aromatics, it is made in the strictest and most pleasant manner from the purest materials. The properties of Quinine are a febrifuge and tonic, and of Wine a stimulant. It is frequently required, strengthen the pulse, increase the appetite, and invigorate the whole system. The peculiar operation of Caldwell, Hance & Co.'s Quinine Wine is to create a healthy appetite, to give tone to the digestive organs, to purify the blood, and to build up the whole system

The Man and the Picnic.

Unto the shellback hickory tree
The picnic man he roamed;
A solid shellback was he, and
With treasure he had comed.
And the sun it shone, and the birds sang free
In the soft of June.

He took a seat, he hit it true,
He shoved his shoe for the ground;
He took a bite, he took a chew,
He took a drink, he took a spew,
He took, but to no boon found.
His chest was sore and his throat was raw
As on he took some more.

A soft moon, and a sound in white,
A sound in the picnic park;
He turned, he saw, he went his right,
His hair was mashed like hell.
He went, he went, he went his left,
He went his best to shield.

In joyous mood, at early noon,
We met some dozen there;
We met some dozen, more or less,
We met, as they met we;
We met, and we had some fun,
We met, and we had some dead ——
Dozen, more or less.

And now they send him up the tree
To fix the picnic crowd;
And on the limb he climbed, and he
Then bought to see him spiel.
Then some one cut the limb in two,
"I had best I say good bye to you."

And now he wasn't, he was down,
And now he wasn't, he was down,
And now he wasn't, he was down,
Amongst the limbs and fronts,
Amongst the limbs and fronts,
Amongst by him was he.

Sobbing, and sighing and wailing,
Hammering and pounding;
Clay, pipe and grass stain on his dress,
One eye was closed,
And he vows that he may more picnics
He never, never, never.

But the morning comes, and in riding out
Brings back another load;
He has got all he had lost of fun,
He has got all he had lost of fun,
He has got all he had lost of fun,
Minus those in the mail five weeks.

The International Cricket Match.

The long-looked-for international match for supremacy at the wickets, between Canada and the United States, began at Ottawa on the 14th inst. The weather was all that the most practical cricketer could desire, and the attendance on the splendid ground was large. A number of spacious tents and marquees were scattered over the field, and these, together with the buildings for staging the Exhibition, which are also surrounded by flags of both countries, and say nothing of the Union Jack and Stars and Stripes, surrounding a gala appearance. Mr. D. Northwood and Mr. Cuff were umpires for the match, and Mr. C. B. Reville has charge of the Canadians.

Wickets were pitched at 11 o'clock precisely. E. H. Benjamin was umpire for the Canadians, and Mr. Cooper, of Philadelphia, did a similar duty for the Americans. The Canadians completed their first innings at one o'clock, when an adjournment was made for lunch. After the interval the G. G. F. G. Band will be present. The following is the score:

The Poetry of Murder.

How a Young English Girl Met Death at the Hands of Her Lover. He Had Written Her Ominous Verses.

At the Crown Court, Leicester, before Lord Justice Thesiger, John Briggs, aged 23, millwright, was indicted for the murder of Mary Ann Brownrigg, at Evington, on the night of the 27th of March last. Briggs is a mill hand, was in his 22nd year, and had been keeping company with the girl for some months, but owing to rival attentions paid to her by another young man, named Matthews, the course of their love was not running smooth. The deceased was smiling and cheerful and had a bunch of Marechal Niel roses in her hand. Briggs and Mrs. Peberdy had some talk with her about the roses, and Briggs said, in reference to the young man Matthews:

George Smalley saw the prisoner and the deceased together about 4 o'clock. About 6 o'clock Mrs. Peberdy, the wife of a farmer living home from his work, and saw a woman lying in the ditch. They took her up, and found that she was dead. Prisoner was with her throat cut.

On the following day Briggs was arrested near Wigston. At first he resisted and denied his guilt; but afterwards when brought to the police station he said, "It is all right; I am the man. I did it." He also said that he had had a quarrel with the girl, and have put his head on the line before night. A razor-case was found in which the prisoner said, "That is Polly's. I loved her." In his pockets two documents were also found. One was a letter from

John Biggs, 22 Thomas street, Leicester.

Dear Mother: I hid you and all farewell, and I hope that you will be happy in all of my brothersons and sisters, and I hope that you will take up my cross, and Harry be rule with me and never go back to pulling down of my cross. My spirit's all for you may be the same as me if you do. God bless you all and farewell and may God bless you all and farewell. Polly together, for I loved her or else I could not have done it. Now I am at rest and no more trouble. Now I am at rest and she lays on the new road as goes off of Wigston to Leicester. Now I am at rest. Tell them you all, and I hope you will have this for my dying words I speak:

Like a lily fair and green
Rain on down and no more seen,
Like a lily fair and white
Be life or death, I am all right.
Weep not for me let pray rest,
Dry up your tears and weep no more.
Dry up your tears and weep no more.
Now I am at rest and happy.

God bless you all, uncle, harnt, mother, sisters, brother and father.

The second document was as follows:

"My portrate is at Sandell's, and Sechi Polly home as soon as you can. If not she is at the Rose and Crown, Belgrave Gate road as goes to Eventon rits down the Belgrave road, and if you go to see her on Saturday or Sunday, and if you go to see her on if you please. God bless all of you.

"Polly Ann" (pocket) for the other paper,
"J. Briggs, 22 Thomas street, Leicester."

The prisoner acknowledged the documents as his own, and added that he was the cause of the police. He afterwards said that he had been keeping company with the deceased for nine months, and that she was the first woman he had ever had connection with. He had given her money, and she lays on the new road as goes off of Wigston to Leicester. He had also given her the seeds when given in too large a quantity. The Crown Prosecutor, after commenting on the kidneys, and this fact was sometimes lessened the flow of milk; but if a smaller portion of the seeds were given the danger is wholly avoided. And probably the cause of so many cows and heifers suffering from feeding more than the due proportion of seeds. Nothing can be more injurious to such cow per day will increase the yield and improve the quality of the milk; but more than this should not be given. Flax seed is a very cheap food, since it requires very little labor to grow. Every farmer who or three tons may be grown, with a good yield of corn and potatoes, without replacing the kidneys, and this fact is
